AT BELMONT, CARE EXTENDS BEYOND THE CAMPUS.

In association with HCA's TriStar Health System, Belmont University and three other area schools have formed the Partners in Nursing Consortium to address the growing shortage of registered nurses.

Belmont's Gordon E. Inman Health Sciences Building, a $22.5 million facility, will serve as home to the Partners in Nursing Consortium. This long-term initiative is designed to improve the quality of care in Tennessee.

Beyond the local community, Belmont nursing students travel to Cambodia each year to work at the Sihanouk Hospital Center of HOPE for the poor. Students serve in the medical and surgical wards, the operating room, the emergency room and outpatient clinic. Belmont students work closely with AIDS patients in the region and study how health care is ever developing in Cambodia.
